Starships within the Federation, much like those found throughout the universe, were built with decks which served as the primary setting for all equipment, rooms, corridors, and personnel. The numbers for the deck count typically ran from top to bottom of a starship, beginning with deck 1. There was no set number of decks within Starfleet or Federation ships, as it varied from class to class.

The Intrepid-class starship was a Federation design that entered service in the later half of the 24th century. The Intrepid-class was designed for long-term exploration missions. At less than half the size of a Galaxy-class starship, it was considered "quick and smart." (VOY: "Someone to Watch Over Me", "Scientific Method", "Relativity") When first commissioned, the Intrepid class featured ...
